Common Entrance 13+ French Exam Practice Questions and Answers

This book, which follows A New French Course Part 2, continues a program in French based on an aural-oral approach. The material and exercises all lend themselves to oral treatment in the classroom and similarly in the language laboratory. Like those of the first book, the lessons contain reading passages illustrating grammatical constructions, oral drill exercises, dictées, exercices de prononciation, questionnaire, and expressions for classroom and every day use. To develop the ability of students to express their own ideas in French, simple exercises in controlled composition have been included. A number of simple dialogues based on varied topics afford practice in common speech patterns. Every effort has been made to avoid overloading students with too much new grammar. Each new point is dealt in varied forms, ensuring a growing confidence in its use. Language patterns introduced in Part I are constantly revised. With respect to verb tenses, only the Future and Perfect have been introduced, because it was considered that these, along with the Present and the futur proche, were the tenses that students need most, at this stage, in a course centred on an oral approach. The vocabulary introduced in the book has been carefully selected, attention having been paid in particular to the official basic list of the Commission du Français élémentaire. We would like to express our thanks to Monsieur M. Chicoteau, Senior Lecturer in French in the University of Queensland, and to Dr E. Goldstein, for valuable assistance in the preparation of the book, R S Horan, John R Wheeler.
